

GREGOR HILDEBRANDT

Whispers of Warhol

Was it a painting, a collage or an installation? Our eyes seemed to deceive us as we poured over the inspiring yet complex sight in front of us. The name of the exhibition, 'These flowers will never die', gave few clues away but the use of reels of old cassette tape and acrylic paint on canvas was truly a unique sight to behold. And that is what sums up the unusual style of German-based artist Gregor Hildebrandt, who presents his latest pop culture-inspired works for the first time in the city at Galerie Isa until April 26. Look for references to music, film, literature and, last but not least, art history all wonderfully meshed together in his complex montages. See you there!

P.S Hildebrandt typically selects a favourite song from an album and then uses a cassette tape of the song as a base for his work

Neighborhood:

Fort

Address:

132 Great Western Building
First floor S.Bhagatsingh
Road

Telephone:

22 66373432 / 33

Published on:

10 April 2014